RACE TRACK, MONMOUTH PARK, Aug. 22.—The fine weather, and the good programme induced a large number of race-goers to travel to Monmouth Park to-day. Speculation in the ring was much better than yesterday, and business was brisk.

The track had thoroughly dried out and the going was lightning fast.

A great tip was out on Espanita, in the first race. The filly was heavily backed from the opening to the close. As good as 3 to 1 could be had against her in the opening prices, but at the end the heavy amounts of money placed with the bookmakers drove her odds down till she went to the post as favorite at 6 to 5.

Grace Brown opening favorite, receded in the betting and closed second choice.

Espanita ran well for six furlongs, but in the last furlong had to give way to Grace Brown, who won very easily by two lengths. She then drew back and the filly, who was second, was beaten off at the finish, and came in length in the rear.

Only three youngsters went to the post in the second race. Discount was much better off than those pitted against him, and the bookmakers refused to lay better than 10 to 1 against his chance of winning. A number of heavy "sure money" players backed the colt at these odds, and he was sold for 10 to 1 as the best odds obtainable.

The favorite had an easy thing of it all the way. He took the lead at the start, and, romping along in front, passed the post a mile from home, by five lengths. He was a gallant second, three lengths behind Alisa.

The race for the Monmouth Handicap, the feature of the day, was won handily by Gloaming, after a fine contest from start to finish. The race was very fast from the start, and helped kill the chances of the leaders, who gave up the struggle half a mile from home.

Gloaming and The Pepper had a hot night all through the race, the former always having something to spare and winning handily by a length and a half. The time was 1:28. A second behind the record made by Lampbrush, in the Champion Stakes last year.

GOSSIP OF THE TURF.
There is but little to comment upon regarding the racing at Monmouth Park yesterday. The weather prophets added much to the discomfort of matters, and, indeed, so far as the talent is concerned, it was a typical "blue Monday."

In no less than five of the races the winners walked a little, then adopted a little, and the time was hung up, denoting that a race had been run.

The blue pencil got in its work in great style, and virtually left walk-overs in three of the events. In the opening race, at six furlongs, Stonemill was a 5 to 1 favorite, and after indulging in a little "blue pencil" work, he won the race, and he cantered home.

It was a case of easy horse against mule in the second race, Banquet and Sabine being the only starters. Banquet managed to walk a mile and a furlong, but the mule, Taral, let the colt have his head, and he cantered home.

It was a case of easy horse against mule in the third race, Banquet and Sabine being the only starters. Banquet managed to walk a mile and a furlong, but the mule, Taral, let the colt have his head, and he cantered home.

It was a case of easy horse against mule in the fourth race, Banquet and Sabine being the only starters. Banquet managed to walk a mile and a furlong, but the mule, Taral, let the colt have his head, and he cantered home.

BABY MEYER IS DEAD.
The Alleged Wife Poisoner's Child
Lived Only Five Days.
It was learned this afternoon that Baby Meyer, the five-year-old son of Dr. Henry Meyer, the alleged poisoner, died at the Post Graduate Hospital, 12 East Twelfth street, yesterday morning.

The baby was born in Detroit while his mother, the alleged wife of Dr. Meyer, was under arrest as an accomplice of her husband.

When the baby was three weeks old Dr. Meyer and his wife were brought both mother and child on from Detroit. The child was never a healthy baby and did not improve during its stay in the Post Graduate Hospital.

It was decided last Friday to remove the child to the Post Graduate Hospital, and to place him in the hands of Dr. O'Sullivan, who will defend Dr. Meyer, did not die of the child's death, but died of the child's death.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The principal feature in the Senate today was a speech by Mr. Voorhees, chairman of the Finance Committee, in support of the bill reported by him last Friday discontinuing the purchase of silver bullion.

Mr. Voorhees said that such questions as this were not a silver question, but an American people had declared that silver should not be demoted and that the American people should establish a fair ratio, and neither of the metals would be demoted. No efforts would be spared to effect an international agreement, but under no circumstances would the laboring, debt-paying nine-tenths of the American people consent to double the debts of debtors by destroying half of the constitutional money.

As a firm, unflinching believer in a metallic, and as an unswerving supporter of the coinage and the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country, without discrimination against either metal, Mr. Voorhees said he would support the passage of the Sherman act, and for the same reason he voted against its repeal. The outcry in certain quarters at this time that those who vote for the repeal of this measure are enemies of silver as money and in favor of its demonetization was not only false as far as he was concerned, but in the light of what had happened in the past it was absurd. In this, the darkest day ever known for silver, he avowed his unshaken faith that it would remain forever one of the world's great and potential factors of finance, commerce, traffic and daily business transactions.

The silver debate will be closed in the House on Saturday by Messrs. Bland, Cockran and Wilson. The latter will close the oratory with a thirty-minute speech.

The voting will begin on the Bland amendment on Monday, and the final vote on the question of repeal will begin at 2 o'clock Tuesday.

There was not a great deal accomplished by Congress in the way of legislation today. Mr. Bland, for the Populists, offered an amendment to the Voorhees repeal bill calling for silver coinage at the present rate of 16 to 1, including all bullion now in the Treasury. It was referred to the Finance Committee, as was also a bill introduced by Mr. Bland for the reduction of the salaries of all Government officers from $1,000 upward by 15 and 20 per cent.

The House passed the Senate bill in aid of the California Midwinter International Exposition, and Mr. Johnson, of Texas, introduced his bill for the reduction of the salaries of all Government officers from $1,000 upward by 15 and 20 per cent.
